ABOUT BIORESONANCE THERAPY

Bio Mean “Life/Living things”
Resonance means to : “Resonate/echo”

The machine helps the cells communicate with each other by means of flashes of light(Photon Radiation). They exchange information via certain frequencies in a healthy body, this exchange of information functions seamlessly. Each cell or part of the body can fulfill its function.

HOW DOES BIORESONANCE WORK?

Bio resonance therapy helps in diagnosing the internal body organs.

This is based on an idea that unhealthy cells or organs emit altered electromagnetic waves, and that changing these waves back to normal will heal the body.

To use bioresonance, electrodes are placed on the skin and hooked up to a machine that “reads” the energy wavelengths coming from the body. This is the process of diagnosis. Then, those energy frequencies can be manipulated by the machine to allow the body’s cells to vibrate at their “natural frequency,” which purportedly treats the condition.

WHAT BIORESONANCE THERAPY IS USED?

Bioresonance therapy is purported to diagnose and treat a number of health-related conditions.

These include:

CONCLUSION

Bioresonance therapy is a type of alternative therapy that uses electromagnetic waves to interact with the body's energy field. It is based on the theory that the body emits electromagnetic signals that can be used to diagnose and treat illness. Bioresonance therapy practitioners use devices to measure these signals and then transmit modified signals back to the body.

There is limited scientific evidence to support the claims made about bioresonance therapy. Some studies have shown that it may be effective for treating certain conditions, such as allergies and pain, but more research is needed. The National Center for Complementary and Integrative Health (NCCIH) states that "there is not enough scientific evidence to determine whether bioresonance therapy is effective for any health condition."

Bioresonance therapy is generally considered to be safe, but it may cause side effects such as headache, fatigue, and nausea. It is important to talk to your doctor before trying bioresonance therapy, especially if you have any underlying health conditions.
